It only takes a second to put on your seat belt. Many drivers and passengers die in crashes they could have survived because they didn't wear seat belts and were thrown from their vehicles.

When passing on the right, you're not easily seen by the driver of the car you're passing. That driver could start changing lanes before realizing you're there.

Watch out for irresponsible drivers who try to beat a red light. It only takes a couple seconds to make sure opposing traffic has stopped.

A 16-year-old driver is 86% more likely to die in a crash when driving with two passengers than when driving alone and 182% more likely to die when carrying three passengers. The rate for 17-year-olds is even higher.

Drivers ages 16 and 17 accumulate 14% of their miles — but 39% of their fatal crashes — between 9 p.m. and 6:00 a.m.

Of the more than half a million new drivers who were recently hurt in crashes, nearly 70,000 received injuries that were considered incapacitating.
